FOR

Their Cleansing, Whitening
and Brightening Properties

Professional people who have made a study of the care of the mouth and preservation of the teeth are using and recommending these preparations.

The powder on account of its fine polishing properties and the oxygen compound that it contains, whitens and brightens the teeth, while the wash reaching as it does all parts of the mouth and penetrating the crevices between the teeth, purifying and invigorating, it stimulates the gums, giving them that rosy tint of health, and imparts to the breath a delightful fragrance and sweetness.

Use together on the brush.

Its Just Simply Killing

When you really think of it, the attitude of the world at large is delightfully inconsistent. "The Laughing Philosophy" of wise old Democritus is ever justified by experience. For example, try to appreciate the truly laughable, self-imposed, serio-comic position of lovely woman, who can spend without a qualm a hundred or more dollars on a "perfect dear of a gown" and then, alas, consign it for cleansing with a feeling of almost stoic heroism to some obscure Knight-of-the-wash-tub in order to save a dollar.

"Ah! consistence," says Shakespeare (or Shakespere), but then he is serious, "thou art a jewel." Were he still with us, he certainly would have added, merely as a matter of "consistency," When thy clothes need cleaning hie thee to

There is a lawyer whose quick wit is said never to desert him either in the court-room or elsewhere.

Not long ago a client entered his office, and throwing back his coat, exclaimed, irritably:

“Why, sir, your office is as hot as an oven!”

“Why shouldn’t it be?” asked the lawyer, smilingly. “It’s there that I make my bread.”

Richard Carle

In his new Musical Comedy,

“Mary’s Lamb”

Richard Carle’s annual Boston engagement at the Colonial Theatre brings his new play, “Mary’s Lamb,” which he describes as “a musical gambol in three bleats.”

Like “The Spring Chicken,” Mr. Carle’s new piece is a made-over French farce, supplied with musical interruptions. The play originally was “Madame Mongodin,” which ran for several long engagements in Paris and also enjoyed great vogue in England under the title, “Mrs. Ponderbury’s Past.” It is a rattling good farce and could be played without any musical accompaniment.

In “Mary’s Lamb” Mr. Carle appears as Leander Lamb, the hen-pecked husband, and the part is the best with which he has ever provided himself. In his support are Jeannette Lowrie, Eliza Proctor

I'M AN ONION"

Otis, Edith St. Clair, Berta Mills, Marion Mills, Carmen Espinoza, Evelyn Richman, Rita Stanwood, John B. Park, Frank Belcher, Ray Youngman, Harry Montgomery, Abbott Adams and others.

The chorus is large, nimble and pretty, the young women appearing as cowgirls, grisettes, models, Dutch girls and society girls. There are some distinct novelties in the play, one of which is a shadowgraph, several young women posing as living models behind a screen.

The other day a young man gave a reason for not dancing, the spirit of which might be made to apply to a good many failures in life.

"I should like to dance," he said, "and I should dance, only the music puts me out and the girls get in my way."

The Visitor—The college seems very popular.

The President—Yes; it has the finest "yell" in the college world.

"Gentlemen! Please do not sing with the artist."

"Don't bother—we're not singing what she's singing."

He. "There is a general rise in bread, they say."

She "Dear me! What is the cause of it?"

He. "I judge it is the yeast they put in it."

"I have come all the way out here," said the tenderfoot, "to see your beautiful sunset."

"Somebody's been stringing you, stranger," replied Arizona Al. "It ain't mine."

He—Did you hear me singing under your window last night? I hope your father didn't hear it

She—Yes, he did, but you needn't worry; he thought it was the cats.

SALE AFTER EASTER.

It is the customary thing to have a mark-down sale, during the days which immediately follow Easter—this year, the season being so late, forces the prices down to a much greater degree than is usual and in every department, we have cut prices about a third from the actual value.

In no department in the store, is the value display equalled by that in our

ENLARGED WAIST DEPARTMENT.

WE now devote half the entire first floor, to the display of waists and the showing is unexcelled in the city.

All sorts and descriptions of waists—for present and Summer wear—dainty and serviceable fabrics—new and practical designs—to suit all purses and all at

A THIRD UNDER PRICE.

Please bear in mind that we buy for our seven retail stores at one time—handle tremendous quantities and get prices never dreamed of by the average merchant.

STANDARD HOUSEHOLD DISINFECTANT

Housekeepers consider it a REQUISITE. You see it in daily use everywhere. On the bathroom shelf, in the kitchen, etc. A SICKROOM NECESSITY.

"Save me, save me!" she cried as her head rose above water and she grasped a plank floating by.

"I beg your pardon," he replied from the bank, "but I want it to be distinctly understood that I am a married man with seven children."

"Yes, yes; save me!" she shrieked.

"Then here'll be no falling into my arms and calling me preserver. Will there?"

"No, no; only save me!"

"All right, I'll try," he responded as he threw off his coat. "You see," he said just before diving in, "I was caught once before and that's how I came to be married. It makes me a bit particular."

It was during the dessert course. He had been sitting next to her for the last hour and a half and was nearly conscious of the beautiful contour of her arms and shoulders.

"Do you know," said she suddenly, "I've been in misery for a week. Sometimes I could almost scream with pain."

"Why, what's the matter?" he exclaimed sympathetically.

"I was vaccinated last week and it has taken dreadfully."

His eyes fell and his gaze was curious. But he saw no scar. "Why, where were you vaccinated?" he asked impetuously.

She raised her eyebrows and smiled sweetly. "In New York," she replied.
